

reason eloquent—was not without its appeal.

The crowd's attention was attracted by the fact that the witness, who was a woman, was a friend of the deceased.

Between friends—real friends—what is more eloquent than the simple and direct statement of a friend who has known the deceased for many years?

That is what the jury heard.

MONTAG AND THE DETECTIVES

Sgt. Montag, president of the National Pencil factory, was on the stand at the morning session. He stated, among other things, the details of the employment of the Pinkerton Detective agency, and on cross-examination the fact was brought out that the bill of the agency had not been paid.

Charles Lee, an employee of the pencil factory, admitted on cross-examination that his wages had been raised since the murder of Mary Phagan.

At the afternoon session Mrs. Emily Selig, mother-in-law of Frank, testified to the fact that she had been at her home on the night of the murder.

The state continued to show by this witness that Mrs. Leo Frank had not visited her husband at the prison for about ten days after his arrest. Mrs. Selig was of the opinion that her daughter went to see him Thursday following the crime but she was not certain of this fact. She denied that she had raised the wages of Minnie McKnight, her cook, who had made a sensational affidavit following the murder, and explained she had merely advanced her some money, which had been repaid.

The evidence regarding Mrs. Frank's visits to the jail was ruled out.

Harry Denham, an employee of the pencil factory, testified that he had waited there on Memorial day from 7:30 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock that afternoon, that during that time he had not heard the elevator running.

SCHEDULE OF CARS.

J. R. Leach, superintendent of the Georgia Railway and Electric company, proved an important witness for the state, although it was not until the afternoon session that he was called to the stand.

The major part of the testimony during the day was of little material value.

Frank Not Nervous on Night Of Murder Says Mrs. Ursenbach

Mrs. Charles F. Ursenbach followed her husband on the stand during the cross-examination by Attorney Hooper.

She was asked scores of detailed questions about the words and manner of Leo Frank on the Sunday that the body was found.

"What is your relation to Mrs. Leo Frank?" asked Mr. Arnold.

"I am her sister,"

"Did you hear about the message from Mr. Frank saying he could not go to the ball game with your husband that Saturday?"

"Yes, I got it from the servant."

"At what time?"

"At about 11:30."

"Did you see Frank on Sunday?"

"Yes."

"What time did you first see him?"

Women Tell of Seeing Frank On Way to and From Factory On Day That Girl Was Murdered

The first of a chain of witnesses who were produced to prove Frank's movements during the time he left the pencil factory for dinner was Miss Helen B. Curran, a well-known stenographer, who stated she met him at Jacob's pharmacy on Whitehall street and Alabama.

She was questioned by Mr. Arnold. "Where were you on April 24?"

"A little after 1 o'clock I was standing at Jacob's drug store at Whitehall and Alabama streets. It was about 1:45 o'clock."

"Did you see Frank?"

"I had been standing for five minutes on the corner when I turned around and saw him standing across the wall."

"About 10 minutes after one?"

"Father works for Montag."

Montag began cross-examination. "Your father works for Montag?"

"Yes."

"There was a big crowd on the streets on the 26th, wasn't there?"

"I wasn't the corner at Jacob's crowded?"

"I don't think so."

"What time did you turn around to look at the clock?"

"I turned the corner walking to work."

"You say you came from Montag about 12:30. Don't you know that Kress closed that at 12?"

"No, because they didn't close."

"Give me the name of a single person you saw on Whitehall street beside Frank?"

"I didn't see anybody I knew."

Gretchen Vreukhous Cordella.

Mrs. M. J. Michael, a relative of Mrs. Frank, was the second witness upon the stand. She recalled having seen the accused man as he left his home after lunch on the 26th.

"I was at home on April 24?"

"I was at home on April 24?"

"Did you see Frank about 2 o'clock that day?"

"He came up Washington street about 2 o'clock and came to the door-step, where we were sitting on the porch."

"Thirty-two and a half cents an hour. How long have you been getting that?"

"What two weeks?"

"What did you get prior to that?"

"Thirty cents an hour."

"What did you tell anybody what you were doing?"

"Nobody."

"Did they know what you were doing?"

"I made a written statement."

"How long did you stay in the blood you are speaking of?"

"I wasn't cleaned up."

"Why?"

"They don't clean up that way. The place is swept out once a week."

"How long did they know and find this blood?"

"No."

"What do you get for wages?"

front porch. He greeted me and asked how were my folks."

"Did you see him leave?"

"Yes, he went up to Glenn street and caught a car."

Jerome Michael, son of Mrs. M. J. Michael, a young law student, was next called to the stand to corroborate his mother's story.

Mrs. Jennie Wolfshiemer, of 27 Washington street, a sister of Mrs. Michael, corroborated the story of the latter. She was not subjected to cross-examination. Julia Losh, who was on the Wolfshiemer porch, also substantiated the story.

Now Frank Get Off Car.

Mrs. Albert G. Lish, was called to testify to having seen Frank arrive on the car at noon for dinner. Her home is at 40 East Georgia avenue.

While across the street from the Bell residence, she said she got off the car at Washington street at exactly 12:30 o'clock.

How to Town With Frank.

Charles Losh, of 44 Washington street, who rode into town with Frank on his way from dinner, on Monday day, took the stand during the morning session.

"Did you see Frank on the 26th of April?"

"Yes, he came to town together on a Friday car."

"Where did he catch the car?"

"At Washington and Glenn streets."

"Did you go to town together?"

"Yes."

"At what time did you reach Hester street?"

"About 2:10 o'clock."

"How long did you stay?"

"About 10 o'clock."

Office Boys Testify for Frank

Philip Chambers, on left and Alonzo Mann, on right, former office boys at Montag, who testified they had never seen women in Frank's office after hours.

Sig Montag Tells of Employment Of Detectives and Two Lawyers

Sig Montag, president of the National Pencil Company and associate in Montag Brothers, was put on the stand at noon for dinner. He testified that during the time named by Jim Conley in the date at which he was in the Clark Woodmen office and that portion of the factory building.

He was examined by Mr. Hoover. "What was your connection with the pencil factory from May last?"

"First secretary and treasurer then president."

"How often did Frank come to your office?"

"Once a day except on Sundays."

"Did you see him on April 24?"

"What time did he come to your office?"

"About 10 o'clock that morning."

"How long did the first floor up to a year ago?"

"The office of the Clark Woodmen were empty."

"Where were their offices?"

"I don't know."

Factory Model Displayed.

Mr. Montag then displayed on the model of the factory the location of the old woodmen's firm offices and the pencil factory which was used for both establishments.

"Did Frank report the murder to you Sunday?"

"Yes."

"What did you do when you learned Frank was being taken to police station Monday?"

"I telephoned Herbert Haas, my personal attorney."

"What did Haas say?" questioned Rosser.

"He said his wife was on ill for him to leave the house."

"What did you then do?"

"I went to police station."

"I went to police station, they refused my admission and then telephoned you, Mr. Rosser."

"The defense has put a definite character into evidence. I did not know what to expect. I am only doing my duty as a prosecuting attorney. It is unfair to exclude all the evidence and then to admit the defense wife and mother and when I am doing my duty to have them run out of the court."

Wanted Questions Ruled Out.

Following this argument, Attorney Rosser made a motion to rule out certain questions and answers which were asked by the defense, which questions pertained to the discovery of the body of the girl.

Two More Character Witnesses Are Introduced by the Defense

Another character witness was introduced by the defense. Harry H. Lewis, of Brooklyn, N. Y., former neighbor of Frank, and a former assistant to the district attorney.

"Did you ever know Frank?" he was asked by Mr. Arnold.

"Yes, for about twelve years."

"How long did you know him?"

"I don't know how long he came south. What was his character?"

"Good."

Cross-examination by Mr. Hoover. "Have you known him since he came south?"

"No."

"You may come off."

The second character witness of the

DEFENSE WITNESS ADMIT BARRETT IS SENSIBLE FELLOW

Henry Smith, a mechanic in the pencil factory, who admitted on cross-examination that he had received a raise in salary in the past two weeks, went upon the stand to tell of Barrett's attitude in the case.

"What department do you work in?"

"The metal department."

"Do you know of a man named Barrett who used to work there?"

"Yes."

"Ever hear of him getting a reward if Frank was convicted?"

"Yes, he used to go by me and laugh and make motions like counting bills."

"Cross-examination by Hoover. "Barrett was a sensible fellow, wasn't he?"

"Arnold objected, but was overruled."

SEATTLE PLAN LOSES IN TYPO CONVENTION

Decisive Victory for the Lynch Adherents—Next Convention to Providence.

Nashville, Tenn., August 14.—The fight for the Seattle plan, which had been looked forward to with keen interest by the delegates to the fifth annual convention of the International Typographical Union, now in session here, was staged this afternoon, and as on all former occasions, the administration won, this being the most decisive victory of the week. By a vote of 247 to 27 the plan was voted down, following an afternoon of debate that at times grew acrimonious.

The plan provided for an election to determine whether or not the governing powers of the International Typographical Union should be taken from the executive committee of three and vested in a board of directors consisting of 25 members to be elected from certain prescribed districts. It meant the complete reversal of the governing power, and was fought hard by the administration forces.

With the decisive victory of today it is believed that the fight against the administration's own election reform will be heard from again before the convention closes.

Very few local features will be enjoyed by the delegates during the remainder of their stay in Nashville on account of the large volume of work to be done in the short time remaining.

Today's session was the last of the entire convention, the morning being devoted principally to hearing the address of George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen's Association.

Another important item was the selection of a new executive committee, which will be held tomorrow night by the convention.

The final meeting of the auxiliary will be held tomorrow morning, when the principal business will be the organization of a local auxiliary.

Milton Klein, Visitor of Frank, Is Grilled by Solicitor Dorsey

Milton Klein, a wholesale lumber dealer, a frequent visitor of Frank's while he was in the tower, was the last witness of the day. He was cross-examined at length by Solicitor Dorsey, whose object apparently was to show that it was Klein who prevented the detectives confronting Frank with Jim Conley.

The direct examination of Klein by Attorney Arnold was as follows:
"How long have you known Frank?"
"Ever since he came here."

"You live on one side of town and he lives on the other?"

"You may come down," said Mr. Dorsey.

Max Goldstein was next called. He testified that he had known Frank about eight or ten years, and that he was of good character.

"How did you first come in contact with him?" asked Mr. Dorsey on cross-examination.

"First as a neighbor, and later when we both were officers in the Blue Bird."

Levy Not Cross-Examined.

Sidney Levy was next called upon. He testified to the awl character of the defendant, and was excused without cross-examination.

He was followed by Rabbi Marx, who declared that Frank was of an exceptionally good character. The state made no attempt to cross-examine him.

Protest Against Disorder.

There was a laugh at the way in which Mr. Krieshaber replied that he supposed he would "called out." It appeared that he did not care to admit it himself, but did not mind others doing so. Mr. Arnold made a vigorous protest to the judge at the disorder caused by the laughter.

"How do you come in contact with Frank?" asked Mr. Dorsey on cross-examination.

"Not frequently," replied the witness. "He is a young man, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"And you a rather old man?"

"Yes, I suppose you'd call me old."

A. J. GRUBB ENDS LIFE WHEN HIS SISTER DIES

Despondent, Contractor Takes Strychnine While Family
Attends Funeral.

Dependent upon the death of his favorite sister, Mrs. Sophia Smith, and suffering with an incurable affection of the heart, A. J. Grubb, aged 48, a wealthy contractor and builder of North Georgia, committed suicide at his home, 108 1/2 West Peachtree street, Thursday morning at 11 o'clock by taking strychnine. With the exception of his 19-year-old son, Harvey, Grubb's family were attending the funeral of Mrs. Smith.

Mr. Grubb had been in poor health for more than two weeks and stated Thursday morning that he did not feel well enough to make the journey to the grave, and his youngest son stayed at the house to wait on him. About 10 o'clock Mr. Grubb told his son that he was going for a short walk, as he had not been out of the house for two weeks. He walked a short distance up the street to a drug store where he purchased a vial of strychnine, telling the druggist that he wanted it for a dog.

Returning Mr. Grubb met some friends with whom he stopped and talked for about ten minutes, receiving congratulations on his sister's recovery. Immediately after he returned to the house, his son heard a noise coming from Mr. Grubb's bedroom and rushed in to find his father lying on the floor. He telephoned to Dr. Gray for a nurse and a record run was made to the Grubb home. It was too late, however, as Mr. Grubb died in his son's arms just before the ambulance arrived.

A highly successful business man, Mr. Grubb was one of the pioneer residents of North Georgia, and was largely interested in the state's affairs. He was a member of the Commercial Club, No. 4, Improved Order of the B. O. F., and had for many years been a member and active worker in the Memorial Presbyterian church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Grubb, one daughter, Mrs. H. P. Clark, and four sons, Harvey, Jack, William and Claude Grubb.

MILLER'S TAX SPEECH WILL BE PUBLISHED

A distinct complaint came to Senator B. S. Miller, chairman of the finance committee of the senate yesterday when a resolution offered by Senator Grant H. Smith, of the twenty-fourth district, requesting that his speech on tax equalization be reduced to writing and published in the papers of the state was passed unanimously by the senate.

Senator Miller spoke several hours on the subject, trying to make a thoroughly comprehensive and exhaustive message and winning many votes for the bill in the senate.

The following is the resolution: "It is resolved, That the speech of Senator B. S. Miller to be reduced to writing and published in the papers of the state, and that the printer of the papers of the state be directed to publish the same in the most prominent place in the paper of the state."

ASSERTS HIS PEOPLE OPPOSE TAX REVISION

Senator T. T. Dufosse arose to a point of personal privilege on the floor of the senate yesterday and made the following statement in regard to an article which appeared in Thursday morning's Constitution:

"I know better than this reporter what the interests of my people are. I do not have to go to any state paper to represent to know how to vote. Five out of six of my own representatives voted against this measure. If I were in politics I would not regard to go before the people with this measure the main issue, and should the occasion arise I would respectfully invite the editor of this paper to meet me on the stump to discuss the question."

The story to which Senator Dufosse referred was one which accused him of voting directly contrary to the wishes of his constituents in fighting the bill creating a state tax commissioner. Senator Dufosse, of the eighth district, also arose to a point of personal privilege, and declared the following:

"The Constitution is a sacred instrument. It is the basis of our government. It is the old man, while in fact it was young and vigorous."

"I am speaking in behalf of the young and unmarried members of this body," he said, "and I would like to think it unfair to us to have a bearded old man representing us."

He Quits Without Resigning.

Mr. Miller, of Ohio, resigned the office of auditor of the navy department today without presenting his resignation. He had heard that his democratic successor was about to be appointed.

Four Generals in the Battle for Tax Reform

HON. H. H. SWIFT.

The brilliant young member of Madison county, to whom probably more than to any other man may be laid the authorship of the senate's substitute which brings about a new system of tax equalization in Georgia.

Mr. Swift was on the house's abolitionist which reported the original Lipcomb bill; he was a leader in the fight in the house at every turn.

When the amendment went to the senate, Mr. Swift went too. His wonderful knowledge of the question in hand, his tact, his energy, and his determination to bring about the approval of both bodies. This brilliant young leader was overwhelmed with congratulations yesterday.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Grubb, one daughter, Mrs. H. P. Clark, and four sons, Harvey, Jack, William and Claude Grubb.

HON. CRAWFORD WHEATLEY.

Chairman of the house appropriations committee, who as a Napoleonic tactician demonstrated his remarkable ability in putting the senate's tax equalization substitute through the house. When he got the appropriation bill back from the senate he delivered it to his committee, that it would never be presented to the house.

He held the bill until the senate accepted the house substitute, and then brought it in with a statement that the senate would not refuse to accept the senate vote with the approval of both bodies.

His leadership was masterful.

HON. R. S. MILLER.

The able chairman of the senate finance committee, whose argument in behalf of state-wide equalization is said to be one of the strongest addresses ever delivered in the Georgia senate. Mr. Miller is a distinguished attorney of Columbus and has an unusually high position as one of the leaders of the senate, he having had charge of the senate of the state's substitute which it is hoped has settled for years the question of tax equalization in Georgia.

WAYWARD GIRLS' HOME TO GET ONLY $20,000

Appropriation for Construction of Building Cut by Legislature From $20,000 to $10,000.

The appropriation of $20,000 for the purpose of constructing buildings for the home for wayward girls for Georgia, Industrial Home for Girls, was cut to $10,000 by a senate amendment passed yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Pickett, of Richmond, offered an amendment to cut the appropriation to $10,000 instead of the $20,000 allowed by the senate. He stated that his reason for this proposed cut was that the state had no money to spare.

Mr. Pickett also stated that the state had no money to spare.

PLACE IN THE SENATE TO BE DENIED CLAYTON

Democrats Unanimous That His Appointment by O'Neil
Is Illegal.

Washington, August 14.—Representative Henry B. Clayton will present his credentials tomorrow to the successor to the late Joseph E. Johnston as governor of Alabama. Appointed by Governor O'Neal to serve out the term of Senator Johnston, Mr. Clayton has been elected to the position of the leading lawyers of his old party in the senate, who are confident he will carry over the record made by the appointment in conformity with the seventeenth amendment to the constitution.

The senate leaders are agreed that a special session of the Alabama legislature will have to be called before the new senator can take office.

Mr. Clayton himself tonight said Representative Oscar W. Underwood, an Alabama, democratic leader in the house, had no objection to his possibility, does not expect any senatorial prospects, and would like to see him nominated for an appointment to fill out the term of Senator Johnston's term in the event Mr. Clayton's political life is possible, however, that Mr. Underwood

O'Neal Denies He Spurred Advice
Montgomery, Ala., August 14.—Governor O'Neal today denied he had urged or given any advice in connection with the resignation of Senator John N. Kern, of Alabama, in 1919 for the long term.

O'Neal made the denial in a statement which he defined in detail published assertions that he had given "any advice or suggestion" to any member of the senate, when he exercised the power of appointment and appointment of a successor to fill the vacancy in the United States senate caused by the death of Senator John N. Kern.

In the statement Governor O'Neal said:

"The only telegram I have received from Washington since the death of Senator John N. Kern, of date, Saturday, August 9, in which he suggested that I should appoint a successor to the legislature to immediately fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator John N. Kern, and Senator J. M. Simmons, also went correct and was the only telegram I received from the senate (sponsored by Senator John N. Kern) and the senate.

"Kern and Simmons are the only two gram I have received from any member of the senate. Neither Senator Weaver nor any other member of the judicial committee have sent me a telegram. Given me any advice made any suggestions as to the course I should pursue to meet the emergency created by the death of Senator Johnston.

Smith, sitting as the board of trustees of public buildings on Monday next will open bids and award contracts for work in the capitol involving about $300,000.

The exclusion of Mr. Sulzer from participation in this meeting is expected to result in an attack by his supporters on the legality of these awards.

MARTIN GLYNN IS RECOGNIZED BY GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY

Trenton, N. J., August 14.—Governor Fielder has officially recognized Lieutenant Governor Martin H. Glynn, chief executive of New York state. Mr. Fielder was forced to make choice tonight when Prosecutor Robert R. Hudspeth, of Hudson county, required extradition of Charles Mass

When the requisition papers had been made out a question arose as to whom the request should be sent, Governor Sulzer or Lieutenant Governor Glynn.

It finally was decided not to recognize Governor Sulzer under the pending impeachment proceedings, and the clerk in the executive office was

SELLING COTTON CAUSED DECLINE

Predictions That Rain Would Become More General in Southwest Main Factor in the Decline—Spot Quiet.

New York, August 14.—The cotton market was more active today, and selling pressure was rather more general, including considerable pressure from houses with weather connections which was supposed to be against the approaching movement. Offerings, however, were pretty well absorbed after an early break and the demand was attributed chiefly to realization by recent buyers that prices were steady at a net level of 12 to 14 points.

Relatively steady Liverpool cables were reflected in the active market, but prices advanced immediately when news of a heavy rain in the southwest, beating crop surveys from the west, and a forecast of rain in the southwest, which was not reflected in the official forecast, was called for. The market was then characterized by a heavy rain in the southwest, which was not reflected in the official forecast, was called for. The market was then characterized by a heavy rain in the southwest, which was not reflected in the official forecast, was called for.
